METHODOLOGY

How this report was built

This is a one-time, manually compiled report — pulled directly from each store's public Google Maps listing on August 12, 2026, sorted newest-first. Google displays relative dates (“a month ago,” “3 months ago”) rather than exact dates, so the 3-month cutoff is approximate. No Google Business Profile API was used; this snapshot does not update automatically.

Review volume in the last 3 months varies a lot by store. Hideaway and Downtown have enough recent reviews to show a real pattern; Brothers and Cobblestone have only one or two, so their sections lean on longer-term history where noted. Treat single-digit samples as anecdotes, not trends.

POSITIVE THEMES

★ Popcorn is a genuine 5-star driver

Free popcorn came up unprompted three separate times in this window alone ("Best Popcorn!!!", "Yummy popcorn") and is a standing review tag with 3 all-time mentions. It's a real differentiator, not a throwaway perk.

● Selection & organization draw praise

"Incredible selections!" and a translated review calling it "well-stocked and organized — no wish went unfulfilled."

● Friendly staff, consistently

Matches the store's standing historical tag — 54 all-time mentions of "friendly staff" — and the tone of owner responses in this window.

NEGATIVE THEMES & CONCERNS

● Website age-gate locked a customer out

One 1-star review (Darren Darnell) reports the store website is "locked down" — reads as an age-verification gate blocking access entirely. The owner responded acknowledging it's worth checking.

● One unexplained 3-star

Karri Naus left 3 stars with no written comment — can't diagnose the cause, but worth knowing it's not universally 5-star.

POSITIVE THEMES

- Staff friendliness called out directly
"Very friendly!" — Ralf Kintzel, 4★.
- Stocking improvement noticed by a repeat customer
"I'm not sure when they started stocking my beer but now they do" — 5★.

NEGATIVE THEMES & CONCERNS

- No-bags policy cost a sale
A customer (2★) says the store offers no bags of any kind and staff weren't willing to help find something to conceal alcohol for walking home — she had to return the item.
- Specific stock gap flagged as a "Big Disappointment"
A requested product (Belgian Moon light, 12-pack) wasn't available — 3★.

Two independent stock/policy complaints in a 7-review sample is a noticeably higher negative rate than the other stores — small enough to be coincidence, but worth a look since both are about a customer leaving without what they came for.

POSITIVE THEMES

- Both recent reviews are positive

"good service" (4★, 2 days ago) and a 5-star with no comment (3 months ago).

- Strong historical theme: kind, helpful staff

Looking at the full 10-review history for context, "kind," "welcoming," and "helpful" staff is the dominant theme, repeated in roughly half of all reviews ever left. There is not a single negative review in the store's history.

None surfaced in this window.

Sample is too thin to call a trend — Brothers has just 10 reviews total versus 266 (Hideaway), 172 (Downtown), and 47 (Cobblestone), despite being an established location. This looks like a review-volume problem, not a sentiment problem: everything on record is positive, there's just very little of it. A simple prompt at checkout (receipt QR code, till sign) would likely surface a fuller picture.

POSITIVE THEMES

- ★ Popcorn theme shows up again, independently

The single review in the window is a 5-star callout of free popcorn — “Popcorn. All I got to say 10/10. Good service too but popcorns is a no brainer.” This mirrors Hideaway's popcorn theme almost exactly, suggesting it's a company-wide perk that resonates, not a one-location fluke.

None surfaced in this window.

Only one review in the 3-month window (the next most recent before that is 8 months old — a 2★ with no comment). Same review-volume gap as Brothers: 47 total reviews is respectable, but the recent pace has slowed. Worth a review-prompt nudge here too.

“Popcorn. All I got to say 10/10. Good service too but popcorns is a no brainer”

What to do with this

- Popcorn is doing real marketing work. It surfaced as an unprompted 5-star driver at both Hideaway and Cobblestone — two different regions, same effect. Worth leaning into deliberately (social posts, signage, the “why shop with us” pitch) rather than leaving it as a quiet perk.
- Hideaway's website age-gate blocked a customer entirely. Worth a quick technical check to confirm it's not a broader access issue.
- Downtown's no-bags policy and a stock-out both cost sales in the same short window. Small sample, but two-for-two is worth watching rather than dismissing.
- Brothers and Cobblestone have healthy sentiment but very few recent reviews. Since there's no negative pattern to fix, the highest-leverage move at these two locations is simply asking more customers to leave a review.
